▶ Is that because of the protest, would you say, because of the actual asylum hotel itself?

这是因为抗议活动，你会这么说吗，还是因为寻求庇护者酒店本身？

▶ I think both really.

我觉得两者都有。

 00:08:51

▶ I think if anything, the protestings made it even more kind of big.

我觉得如果说有什么的话，抗议活动让它变得甚至更大了。

▶ So, yeah, questions, gives you a lot of questions in your head, I think.

所以，是的，问题，让你脑子里产生很多问题，我想。

▶ Well, there were people today who didn't want to go on camera who were pleased with the way the judgement went.

内政大臣决定介入此案，这令人深感失望。

▶ What is the reaction to that and indeed the ruling being so far from people at your residence?

对此的反应是什么，以及这项裁决与您所在地区居民的意见相去甚远？

▶ So, obviously, it's very early days.

所以，很明显，现在还非常早。

▶ I mean, my immediate response as the council is that we continue to fight.

我的意思是，作为议会，我的直接反应是我们将继续抗争。

▶ Obviously, we've still got the case for the permanent injunction in October.

显然，我们在十月份还有申请永久禁令的案子。

 00:10:02

▶ As far as I'm concerned, we continue with that.

就我而言，我们会继续推进。

▶ While the home office will be breathing a sigh of relief tonight, they won't have to remove the 130-8 asylum seekers at the Bell Hotel.

虽然内政部今晚会松一口气，他们不必移除贝尔酒店的130名寻求庇护者了。

⏮ But, Epping Forest District Council, they're saying they are still considering taking full legal action with an injunction and other councils like neighbouring Brock Spawns in Hartford to say they might still take legal action against a hotel in their area.

但是，埃平森林区议会表示，他们仍在考虑采取全面的法律行动申请禁令，而像邻近哈特福德的布罗克斯本等其他议会也表示，他们可能仍会对其所在地区的酒店采取法律行动。
