

Surfing - Once upon a wave

【科普精选：冲浪-浪花里的童话】

Summary: Surfing originated as a sacred Polynesian tradition nearly lost to colonial suppression. Its modern revival began through Hawaiian waterman Duke Kahanamoku's Olympic fame and global ambassadorship. The 1950s California surf culture transformed it into a symbol of rebellion, later commercialized into a billion-dollar industry. Key revolutions included women's competitive surfing led by Lisa Andersen, technical innovations like tow-in big wave riding, and the global spread of surf culture. Today, surfing balances professional competition with profound spiritual connections to the ocean, honoring its Polynesian roots while evolving into a worldwide phenomenon.

摘要：冲浪起源于波利尼西亚的神圣传统，却因殖民压迫几近湮灭。现代冲浪复兴始于夏威夷"水人"杜克·卡哈纳莫库通过奥运荣耀成为全球推广大使。1950年代加州冲浪文化将其转化为反叛象征，后商业化成为数十亿美元产业。关键变革包括丽莎·安德森引领的女子竞技冲浪、拖曳冲浪等技术革新，以及冲浪文化的全球传播。如今，冲浪既保持着专业竞技发展，更延续着与海洋的精神联结，在致敬波利尼西亚根源的同时，已演变为席卷全球的文化浪潮。

没有人能与他相比。

▶ He is simply the boss.

他简直就是老大。

▶ Now over fifty, Kelly Slater has eleven world championship titles to his name.

如今已年过五十的凯利·斯莱特，拥有11个世界冠军头衔。

 00:41:58

▶ He still competes with the best surfers in the world in selected competitions.

他仍在一些比赛中与世界上最优秀的冲浪者同场竞技。

▶ There'll never be another one like Kelly.

不会再有第二个凯利这样的人。

▶ Professional surfing has established itself, and surfing as a popular sport has conquered the world.

职业冲浪已经站稳脚跟，而作为大众运动的冲浪也征服了全世界。

▶ But some purists prefer to stay away from competition.

但一些纯粹主义者更愿意远离比赛。

▶ Laird Hamilton has taken it upon himself to revive the spirit of big wave surfing.

莱尔德·汉密尔顿把#复兴#大浪冲浪精神的责任扛在自己肩上。

 00:42:29

▶ I just looked at the landscape, and I thought ok,

我只是看着眼前的景象，心想：好吧，

▶ here's the ocean here's surfing I've seen every kind of different surfing there is,

这里有海洋，有冲浪，我已经见过各种各样的冲浪，

▶ I watched surfing develop with the equipment, I watched the places develop.

我见证了冲浪随着装备的发展而发展，也见证了地点的发展。

▶ What am I interested in, what is the thing that interests me?

那我对什么感兴趣？什么才让我真正兴奋？

▶ And the thing that made sense to me was just, do what no one else can do.

而对我来说有意义的就是，去做别人做不到的事。

 00:42:52

▶ Laird Hamilton grew up on the North Shore, among the huge waves of Waimea Bay.

莱尔德·汉密尔顿在北#岸#长大，那里有怀梅亚湾的巨浪。

▶ Laird was a great athlete.

莱尔德是个出色的#运动员#。

▶ He wanted to surf huge waves.

他想要#冲浪#巨浪。

▶ He had seen his father and his friends do it, but at some point you reach your physical limit.

他看过父亲和朋友们那样做，但在某个点你会碰到身体的极限。

▶ The higher the swell, the faster you have to paddle.

浪越高，你就必须更快地#划水#。

▶ And human strength is limited.

而人的力量是有限的。

bilibili 00:43:24

▶ He realized that he needed propulsion.

他意识到自己需要#推进力#。

▶ He and his buddy Buzzy Kerbox bought a Zodiac boat.

他和他的#伙伴#巴兹·科博克斯买了一艘充气小艇。

▶ This allowed them to go faster than the waves.

这让他们能够比海浪跑得更快。

▶ That's how tow-in surfing was born.

这就是#拖曳#冲浪诞生的方式。

▶ One morning in February 1993, photographer Sylvain Cazenave documented the new surfing technique from the air, off Hawaii.

1993年2月的一个早晨，摄影师西尔万·卡泽纳夫在夏威夷空中记录下了这种新的冲浪技术。

 00:43:52

▶ The dinghy was three kilometers away from the main boat.

那艘#小艇#离主船有三公里远。

▶ And then we saw a gigantic swell coming up.

然后我们看到一个#巨大的#涌浪袭来。

▶ Through trial and error, the new method took several months to perfect.

经过反复试验，这种新方法花了几个月才完善。

▶ An inflatable boat pulled Laird Hamilton to the top of the huge wave.

一艘充气艇把莱尔德·汉密尔顿拖到巨浪的顶端。

▶ Once at the edge of the break, Hamilton released the rope connecting him to the boat and plunged into the unknown.

到达浪口边缘后，汉密尔顿松开了与小艇相连的绳索，投入未知的浪潮之中。

 00:44:17

▶ Being towed onto a wave and then letting go,

被拖进浪里然后放手，

▶ and feeling the wave pick you up and as soon as it picked you up, you were flying.

感受到浪把你托起，而一旦托起，你就像在飞翔。

▶ You had that feeling you were set free.

你会有种被释放的感觉。

▶ It freed me from the chains of surfing.

它让我从冲浪的束缚中解放出来。

▶ And so when you have this evolution that all of a sudden opens up the potential for new breaks,

因此，当你拥有这种#进化#，突然开启了探索新浪点的可能性时，

🎵 then it just makes the whole world a bigger world.

这让整个世界都变得更大了。

 00:45:03

🎵 Following the example of Laird Hamilton, tow-in surfers follow storms and waves all over the world.

效仿莱尔德·汉密尔顿，#拖曳#冲浪者开始追逐全球的风暴与巨浪。

🎵 More than ever, it's the elements that call the shots

比以往任何时候，都是自然元素在掌控一切，

🎵 and set the pace in the lives of this new breed of surfers.

并为这种新一代冲浪者的人生设定#节奏#。

超过26米，高得像一栋十层楼。

▶ I like to get out on the water a bit before sunrise.

我喜欢在#日出#前一点点下水。

▶ It's still very dark and then you can only see the silhouettes of the waves coming in.

那时天还是黑的，你只能看到浪潮的轮廓涌来。

▶ And the further out they are, the bigger the waves are.

而且越远的浪，往往越大。

▶ I can roughly judge the power of the wave by its color.

我大致能通过浪的颜色来判断它的力量。

▶ The darker the wave is, the more powerful it is.

浪越黑，就越有力量。

 00:48:21

▶ Everything that happens after that is intuitive.

之后发生的一切全凭#直觉#。

▶ That's one of the best moments for me: I position myself on the wave,

这对我来说是最美妙的时刻之一：我把自己定位在浪上，

▶ which means I have an overview of the wave.

这意味着我对浪有一个整体的#俯瞰#。

▶ The view and the feeling, the speed...you can't describe it.

那种视野、那种感觉、那种速度.....你无法形容。

▶ It's just you and the wave.

只有你和浪。

▶ You let go of the rope and all your senses light up, come alive.

你松开绳索，所有感官瞬间点亮、鲜活起来。

 00:49:06

▶ You feel the wave rising behind you, you can feel it.

你能感受到浪在你身后升起，真切地感受到它。

▶ You also see the shadow coming.

你还能看到阴影逼近。

▶ You say to yourself: this is it.

你对自己说：就是它了。

▶ With the world record wave I understood we've come to the end of the line with our development and our knowledge of what's possible

在创造世界纪录的浪上，我意识到我们在设备和认知的发展上，已经达到了极限，

▶ like board design and construction.

比如冲浪板的设计和制造。

▶ Like Tom Blake and Laird Hamilton before him, Sebastian Steudtner is looking for ways to improve his equipment.

像汤姆·布雷克和莱尔德·汉密尔顿当年一样，塞巴斯蒂安·施特伊德纳也在寻找改进装备的方法。

 00:50:07

▶ Here he uses a wind tunnel to increase his speed.

他在这里利用风洞来提升速度。

▶ And this is Kelly Slater, who has created an artificial wave park

这就是凯利·斯莱特，他创造了一个人工造浪公园，

▶ so that he can surf endlessly on perfect waves.

让自己可以在完美的浪上#无限#冲浪。

▶ But one crucial element remains the same.

但有一个关键元素始终不变。

▶ Celebrating the sea, as the inhabitants of Oceania did long ago.

那就是庆祝大海，就像古代#大洋洲#的居民那样。

▶ Plunging into the ocean waves to test human bravery, and fragility, in the face of the elements.

投身海浪，去考验人类在自然面前的勇气与脆弱。

 00:50:44

▶ Today, millions of people around the world love to surf.
